WEST VIRGINIA TAKES LEAD IN ROAD BUILDING

Department of Agriculture Interested in Providing Good Roads.

CHARLESTON, July 22.—West Virginia, for many years regarded in other states as about the most palpably and inexcusably lacking in worthy-of-the-name highways of any state in the union, is about to become famous for its energies in road building, according to Howard E. Williams, state commissioner of agriculture, and other West Virginia state officials. "We are interested in roads in this department," said Commissioner Williams, "because the farmer must have better roads before he can get all that is coming to him as a result of his efforts—because agriculture must have incentive before agriculture will flourish, and improved means of transportation to profitable markets offers the greatest possible incentive to increased effort on the farm.

"No farmer would waste another drop of sweat to make two stalks of corn or wheat to grow where one grew before unless he knew he could find a market for that additional stalk—and if he can't get to market for his roads, he will quit farming altogether unless it be from the necessity of keeping soul and body together."

Commissioner Williams showed great interest in reports from many parts of the state showing what is being accomplished in road building. It has not been long since Williams himself made a tour of his own county of Greenbrier, boosting the better roads movement, and he believes the farmer who passes up any opportunity to speak a good word for improved highways is recreant to his duty to himself and to farmers as a class.

Report Shows Plans.

Another Williams—A. D. Williams, state road engineer with offices at Morgantown—has compiled a report showing what has been done in recent months in the good roads line in West Virginia and also showing what it is intended to do.

Details of the work show that it has spread to every county in the state with two exceptions. Contracts will be awarded August 3 by Marion county for sixty-five miles of permanent roads in Lincoln district, connecting the work formerly started in Mannington and Fairmont districts, this to complete a long stretch of the main highway from Wheeling through Fairmont to the eastern cities. The bonds for the Lincoln district work were sold to the Providence Savings and Trust Company, of Cincinnati. The issue totals $650,000.

To the west, Wetzel county is extending this same road seventeen miles by a bond issue of $240,000, already sold. Contracts will be awarded for this link August 9. Engineer J. Russell Wilson, of Morgantown, will have charge of both contracts. Specifications were prepared by the state road engineer.

Brooke county bonds, $800,000, will be sold this week. Engineer C. A. Eichelberger has begun surveys for this work, to extend from Wheeling north through Brooke county, and eventually to be a cross-cut link connecting the national pike and Lincoln highway, both of which cross the panhandle, and likewise to be a part of the "lakes-to-the-gulf" highway.

Hancock county bonds, amounting to $215,000, have been sold, in addition to $200,000 recently sold. The new issue is for the purpose of connecting up the "missing links" on work under way or finished.

Randolph, the largest county in the state, one of the most beautiful in scenic grandeur, with an area as great as Rhode Island, makes a start by advertising for receiving bids for twenty-two miles of permanent roads in Leechville district and other sections leading out from Elkins, the bond issue amounting to $220,000.

Barbour county will connect with this new construction in Randolph by connecting up through Barker district. Bonds amounting to $125,000 have been sold. County Engineer Cleo Swicker is preparing plans and specifications and the contract will be let soon, the new road to be concrete and macadam. This road will be a part of the Beverly pike, running from the Randolph line toward Fairmont through Belington. Connected to the Randolph contract, the new link will be thirty-six miles long.

Fayette In Line.

Fayette county will sell July 31 bonds to the amount of $600,000 for Fayetteville district, $175,000 each for Sewell Mountain district and Falls district, and $100,000 for Nuttall district, the last three on the James river and Kanawha pike, for permanent roads.

leaving only a stretch of six miles in Mountain Cove district on this pike for which no provision has been made for improvement.

Fayette county has decided to put two engineers on the road work, and one of them is Major H. L. Bowiby, who had charge of the Pacific highway through the state of Oregon.

Bonds have been voted for in Greenbrier county $90,000 in White Sulphur Springs district and $153,000 in Lewisburg district, and sold to a Washington, D. C., trust company at 101. This work will be a concrete and asphalt macadam, and the road to be built is a part of the old Midland trail, or James river and Kanawha pike, the route taken by Colonel Andrew Lewis on his way to the battle of Point Pleasant, Mason county, 1774, when the Indians were defeated, and the West Virginia frontier saved from the red men's ravages during the Revolution.

Kanawha County.

In Kanawha county funds have been provided for all that section of the Midland trail in that county except through Cabin creek district. An election for a $900,000 bond issue will be held in the early autumn making a total of $1,450,000 in bond issues for the county for good roads. On the same road passing through Putnam county, Scott, Teays and Scary districts will vote August 1 on a $280,000 bond issue for thirteen miles of road, connecting with the Kanawha and Cabell counties road. Wayne county is expending $900,000 on grading and shaping up roads, and with the issues in Fayette, Greenbrier, Putnam and Kanawha counties the old pike will be rebuilt permanently all the way across the southern end of the state from White Sulphur Springs to the western boundary of Cabell county, the latter having provided for its section, and contracted for the work. On the same extensions Blue Sulphur district, in Greenbrier county will vote next month on an issue of $75,000, leaving only one district each in Kanawha, Fayette and Greenbrier to vote on bonds to complete the work, and these elections will be held before snow falls.

To carry on the work from Kanawha Falls, Falls district, in Fayette county, voted on $250,000, but the election result is contested. This work will be a part of the new road from Charleston to Bluefield, Mercer county, and is a part of the Giles, Fayette and Kanawha pike, famous in early history.

On Lawn of Southern Church When Boy is Electrocuted.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., July 22.—Kenneth McEwen, eleven years of age, was electrocuted thirty feet in the air on a lighting tower in view of the congregation of a church that was holding services on the church lawn because of the heat.

The boy was knocking the wire that supplied current to the lights on the tower against the steel frame to produce sparks. Suddenly a flash of blue flames enveloped him and he plunged downward, fracturing his skull on the pavement below. He died in a hospital a few minutes later.

The pastor of the church, the Rev. E. P. Aldredge, was preaching a special sermon to boys. He rushed over, aided in placing the lying lad in an ambulance and then resumed his sermon, using the accident as a warning to the boys.

SUFFRAGIST

May Run for President if Hughes Doesn't "Come Across."

WASHINGTON, July 22.—Leaders of the Congressional Union for woman suffrage announce they are considering putting a woman candidate for president in the field. Miss Alicia Paul, chairman, said: "The woman's party has a conference at Colorado Springs in August. If Mr. Hughes has not definitely endorsed the Susan B. Anthony amendment by that time, the woman's party may put either a candidate of its own, a woman in the field, or join the Progressives in nominating a man about whom the Progressives and the women can rally."

WHEN THE PROFITS COME TO YOU
"Anything that's worth having is worth working for" and so it is with the profits that return from the dollars you work for and save.
When you get a substantial amount on interest then is when the profits mean something worth while.
In the Merchants National Bank many accounts that started with $1.00 are today yielding good interest return—then too there's the accumulated principal. The dollars that are slipping through your fingers into someone else's might be yielding profits for you. Start them working here.
